Description

The Community Corrections Collaborative Network (CCCN) will be hosting a live webinar event with our federal partners and national and local experts to highlight Hawaii's Opportunity Probation with Enforcement (HOPE), a collaborative strategy among the court, probation, prosecutors, defense, law enforcement and community treatment providers to effect positive behavioral changes in probationers. HOPE was first conceived of by Judge Steven S. Alm of the O'ahu First Circuit and began as a pilot program in 2004. The HOPE strategy targets higher risk/higher needs offenders, utilizing swift, certain, consistent, and proportionate consequences for non-compliance with probation conditions while maintaining a working alliance with the offender by both the probation officer and the judge.

Within the framework of the National Institute of Corrections' eight evidence-based principles for recidivism reduction, HOPE assists offenders in the change process in a caring and supportive environment to help probationers succeed on probation and in life. While seemingly a simple theoretical model, HOPE is hard to do, and requires shared leadership within the criminal justice system. Research has shown that the HOPE strategy, when done with fidelity, can be highly successful and is inspiring like efforts in thirty-one states across the country. The CCCN believes that individual jurisdictions can adopt the swift and certain philosophy while modifying it to fit the needs and resources available in local communities. Our network is committed to identifying promising and innovative practices and promoting the use of evidence-based practices.

Objectives for the Webinar

- Showcase the innovative HOPE Program and how it can be replicated stateside;
- Discuss HOPE's innovative programmatic design, implementation and evaluation characteristics including:
 - HOPE's collaboration and systems approach - Court/Probation/Law Enforcement/Community Treatment Providers working together for a common goal;
 - Buy-in from staff/engagement/inclusion/supporting each other;
 - Matching probationers to the right services instead of one-size fits all;

- Succession planning and sustainability build to success;
- Research, randomized control trials, and high level scientific design proving the effectiveness of the program; and
- Engage the criminal justice system in a live discussion about the HOPE Program, resources for the field, how to access funding through federal resources, ideas for replication of similar approaches, and to motivate our leaders to want to do more.

Preparing for the Webinar

The webinar will be delivered using the WebEx Event Center virtual webinar platform. To participate successfully in a WebEx webinar effectively, you will need an internet enabled computer/ laptop and a telephone with a headset/earbuds.

- To ensure that you are able to access the platform, please ensure that your IT Administrator gives you access to the NIC WebEx platform at <http://nic.webex.com>

•Please access the following link to check and see if your browser will work with Webex <http://www.webex.com/test-meeting.html> This test will only take a minute and we at NIC strongly recommend you to run this test prior to connecting to the WebEx platform.

•When you first access the WebEx platform, your computer will access and run "WebEx Event Manager", a web based application that allows you to experience the webinar platform. Access this link to set it up and check your rich media players prior to accessing the webinar <https://nic.webex.com/mw3100/mywebex/default.do?siteurl=nic&service=6>

Webinar Video Clips

During this webinar we will share one or more video clips in the WebEx Event Center virtual webinar format. To ensure that you have the most effective learning experience, and can see and hear the video clips as they are shared:

•Install the latest version of Windows Media Player (<http://windows.microsoft.com/en-US/windows/download-windows-media-player>) or QuickTime (<https://support.apple.com/downloads/quicktime>) on your computer / laptop prior to the start of the webinar. If these are not installed on your device, you will not be able to see and hear the video clips.

•Be sure the volume is up on computer / laptop speakers so you can hear video clips.

•At this time, video clip sharing is not compatible on mobile devices via WebEx Event Center. We recommend you participate in the webinar on a desktop computer or laptop.

•Please consult with your agency IT Administrator if you have questions regarding your organization's compatibility with these free media player applications.

If you experience technical difficulties during the event, please contact WebEx Technical Support at 1-866-229-3239 for assistance.

We hope that you will join NIC for more presentations like this one at the 2016 Virtual Conference: Leading with Innovation! scheduled for November 9, 2016!
